President’s Message

It is not enough to be busy; so are the ants. The question is: What are we busy about?

As I was preparing to draft this month’s column promoting the San Antonio Bar Association’s Community Justice Program (CJP), this quote popped up on Forbes.com. It struck a chord with me. Slightly modified from the original Henry David Thoreau quote—it is not enough to be industrious; so are the ants. What are you industrious about? The question elicited for me, what am I busy with and what should I be busy with? One thing I know I can make time for is volunteering for charitable organizations. One such organization that needs our help is the CJP!

The CJP has undergone some big changes this year, and now operates as an independent program under the San Antonio Bar (con’d on p. 5).

August Luncheon: Sheriff Susan L. Pamerleau, Ending the Cycle of Abuse

She began her 32-year career in the United States Air Force when fewer than one percent of the Armed Forces were women, and rose to the rank of Major General. During her Air Force career, she received numerous major awards and decorations, including the Distinguished Service Medal, the Defense Superior Service Medal, and the Legion of Merit.

Member Spotlight: Courtenay E. Euton

What’s your current job?
I am a solo practitioner at the Law Office of Courtenay E. Euton, PLLC. I practice in the following areas: Special Education Law, Wills, Probate and Guardianships, and Family Law.

How long have you been a member of the BCWB?
I joined BCWB in May while signing up for the BCWB retreat. I have never been to the retreat before, but I am looking forward to it. Since I just joined, I do not really have any experiences to share. However, I am sure I will have plenty in the near future. I am really looking forward to being more active in this group and meeting other members.

Tell us about your morning ritual or daily routine.
I recently had a baby, so my morning rituals have slightly changed. After getting up ready for work, I always make sure to have some time left over, so that I can just play with Naomi before the work day begins. We read books, play with her various toys, or just have fun making silly noises together. In the evenings, I meet my sister-in-law to go running around Olmos Basin. My daughter frequently tags along, but it is a bonus for us. Not only do I get to spend time with her, she gets to bond with her aunt and enjoy the outdoors.

What’s your favorite moment of your career so far?
I represent a lot of children with various disabilities against school districts regarding the child’s individual education program (IEP) and related supports and services. I was participating in an Admission Review and Dismissal (ARD) meeting with the opposing counsel. At the time of this meeting, I had just gotten out of law school and found out I passed the July Bar, sworn in, etc. Opposing counsel knew all of that about me. I guess you could say, my favorite career moment was having the wisdom, knowledge and confidence to show opposing counsel that I might be a “newbie” but this newbie knows Special Education Law. During this meeting Opposing Counsel quoted only a portion of the law in his argument. Of course the portion he quoted, was in favor of his client, the school district. After he finished his argument, I proceeded with “Yes, but the law also states ....” The meeting ended very successfully. The child was provided with the supports and services his disability requires; and is doing very well in school.

I am very grateful that the other attorney, who I enjoy working with, challenged me that day. If it was not for him challenging me like that who knows if I would have gained the confidence I needed that day. This meeting showed me what I have always known to be true - prepare well and you shall succeed. This area of my practice is so rewarding and I enjoy (well I like to think I am) making a difference with these children every day through their education.

What was your childhood dream job?
I believe my first dream jobs included becoming a barrel racer for the rodeo. When I realized that was not going to happen (for plenty of reasons) I focused strictly on becoming an attorney.

My Name is Lucy Barton. As a general matter, I prefer prose to be stripped clean, bare and to the point. That's not to say that florid prose doesn't have its place; it just doesn't engage me in the same way as its plain spoken cousin. Elizabeth Strout is a master of saying more with less. I read Olive Kitteridge years before and enjoyed it, though I can't say the story stuck with me. But I have a feeling My Name is Lucy Barton will be with me for a while.

Most of Lucy's story is recalled from five days of a nine week stay in the hospital, during which time Lucy's mother kept Lucy company as she recovered from an appendectomy and later complications. Lucy is married with two daughters. This isn't the story of her marriage. While it is in many ways the story of her childhood - full of poverty and abuse - the reader is given only a glimpse of the rough edges of her childhood. At a mere 192 pages, this book was a quick afternoon read. It both broke my heart for the hurts we knowingly and unknowingly allow to pass to our children and also the sheer resiliency of spirit. In full disclosure, my aunt didn't like this one at all! I'd love to hear what you thought of it.

Eligible. I told you back in May that I intended to read Eligible by Curtis Sittenfeld, which is a reimaging of Jane Austen's Pride & Prejudice. Why would Sittenfeld do this, you might ask yourself. She was invited to participate in the Austen Project, along with 3 other novelists revisiting Austen’s other major works. This came through on my library waitlist and, it being a regular old Saturday night, I plunged into the book around 10 p.m. and did not stop until I finished it in the wee hours of the morning. I simply could not put this book down. Was it the best thing I have ever read? No, but Sittenfeld did an amazing job bringing the spirit of Austen's characters into the modern day. I won't bother with a plot synopsis; I'll just leave you with a strong recommendation for this book as a lovely way to lose yourself for a few hours!

Guilty Pleasure: What can you not live without?
I absolutely love coffee. I really cannot even understand why, because the caffeine has zero effect on me (probably means I drink way too much of it). My other vice, which I only turn to when I am stressed, is Diet Dr. Pepper. Like I tell my husband, my guilty pleasures could be way worse.

What’s the best career advice you can offer to others?
My only advice is to work in an area that you enjoy and love. Choose a career that makes you want to get out of bed every morning and give 110%. Even though every morning is not like that for me (I am human), I would not change my career choice.

receive the important legal help they need but cannot afford.

The Veterans Clinic provides an opportunity to help serve those who have served us! Veterans have a wide range of legal issues, so experienced attorneys in all practice areas are needed. This monthly clinic is held at the Audie L. Murphy Veterans Hospital at 7400 Merton Minter St. These clinics begin at 1:00 p.m. and usually end by 4:00 p.m. The clinics offer will preparation just like at the regular Wills Clinics, but mostly advice only on a wide variety of legal issues. Veterans and their spouses are eligible to receive services. The Veterans Clinics will be held on: August 19, September 16, October 21, and November 18.

The Family Law Clinic is offered quarterly, with upcoming clinics scheduled on August 9 and November 8. You do not need to be a family law attorney to volunteer. Before the clinic, the CJP prescreens each case to determine if it is uncontested. On the night of the clinic, the CJP provides you with sample documents that you may need and the assistance of experienced family law attorneys to help both during the clinic and as you complete the legal documents after the clinic. District clerks, judges, law students, paralegals, notaries, and other support staff are on hand to ensure cases are prepared and filed in an easy and smooth manner.

The CJP requests that all volunteers register ahead of time so the program staff can ensure the attorney to client ratio matches up. To sign up for any of the CJP clinics, contact CJP Director Amanda Reimuth Buckert at amandab@sabar.org. You can find a complete calendar at the CJP website www.cjpsa.org.

In addition to helping those in need, clinic volunteers are eligible to receive up to a total of 5.5 hours in CLE credit, including 1.25 hours of ethics credit. All clinic volunteers will receive 0.5 hour (0.25 is ethics) for the preliminary training session each clinic volunteer is provided prior to meeting with their assigned client. The program is offer up to 5 hours (1 hour ethics) of CLE credit to volunteers for any time they worked directly with a mentor. For more information on CLE details, contact Amanda via email or phone at (210) 227-8824.

Find some time in your busy schedule to support a CJP clinic and come join the BCWB on October 18, 2016 at the Wills Clinic.

If you are unable to volunteer at a clinic, you can still help! You can Just Give One! Donate the equivalent of one billable hour to ensure the CJP has the funding it needs to continue offering services to everyone in need! To donate today, simply click on the “donate” button on the CJP’s website, www.cjpsa.org.

Judicial Spotlight: Judge Ron Rangel

By Arya Koneru & Jordan Cadenhead, interns, 150th District Court

Judge Ron Rangel has presided over the 379th Criminal District Court since 2008. He also serves as the Local Administrative Judge, representing 27 Bexar County district courts. Prior to becoming a judge, Judge Rangel worked as a child victim's advocate for Child Protective Services, a felony prosecutor, and a criminal defense attorney.

Why did you decide to become an attorney?

Judge Rangel decided to become an attorney at age twelve because he was fascinated by Abraham Lincoln’s life story. Lincoln stressed the importance of reading and is quoted stating “Everything I’ve learned, I learned from books.” Judge Rangel made this ideology one of his foundational principles. Judge Rangel attributes Lincoln for teaching him the importance of empathy, a skill he credits with helping him tremendously on the bench.

Who are the people that have had the greatest influence upon your legal career?

Homer Vasquez, who was once the first assistant district attorney at the Hidalgo County District Attorney’s office, mentored Judge Rangel and taught him how to prepare and try cases. Judge Rangel’s father was also a great influence in his career. Although his father was not an attorney, he instilled strong values in Judge Rangel that have helped him tremendously in his legal career.

Why did you choose criminal law?

Judge Rangel thrives on the drama of a jury trial dealing with liberty and life. He pulls inspiration from Atticus Finch in To Kill a Mockingbird and views the idea of justice as nebulous and constantly evolving.

What are you most proud of so far in your legal career?

Judge Rangel is most proud of the personal stories he receives through letters describing citizens who have appeared before him and how he impacted their lives. The judge values his ability to impact people’s lives in a positive way and always tries to do so.

What tips can you give other lawyers interested in becoming a judge?

Read! Judge Rangel is a believer in the power of books and suggests that all lawyers read, and read a lot. He emphasizes the importance of reading different perspectives of the same subject to learn all possible arguments. He states that it is vital for judges to understand that all people view situations differently, and that every single thing someone tells a judge is important. Judge Rangel firmly believes that only by understanding different viewpoints can a judge effectively uphold justice.

How do you define justice?

Justice is being even handed, honest, ethical, willing to listen and to understand. Justice only occurs when you are fair and kind to both parties.
